DECISION IN THE U. S. DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

In re Thomas Ryan—In bankruptcy.

An innkeeper and retail dealer in liquors is a trader, and when he is unable to pay his debts as they become due, in money, he is insolvent, although his property may exceed in value the amount of his debts.

An insolvent debtor who prefers one or more of his creditors necessarily thereby commits an act of bankruptcy.

Where it appears that a debtor gave a mortgage upon a large portion of his property, which mortgage purported to be given as security for a debt that in fact never existed, the reasonable conclusion is that such mortgage was made to hinder and delay, if not to defraud the creditors of such debtor, and is, therefore, an act of bankruptcy.

Where a debtor has committed an act of bankruptcy by giving an unlawful preference, or making a transfer of his property with intent to hinder, delay and defraud his creditors, he cannot discharge himself from his legal liability for such act by a subsequent recision or undoing thereof.

DEADY, J.—Tuesday, April 29, 1873.

Petition by F. Opitz and others to have respondent adjudged a bankrupt. The cause was heard by the court without a jury, on April 22 and 23, and submitted.

At the filing of the petition—April 1, 1873—and since 1864, the respondent was engaged in keeping a tavern and bar, in this city, called the Russ House.

The petition alleges, that the respondent being a trader and insolvent, committed acts of bankruptcy as follows: (1) That on January 29, 1873, he made a conveyance and transfer of the chattels in said Russ House to one Catharine Crinnion, with intent to thereby hinder, delay and defraud his creditors; and with the intent to give a preference to said Crinnion; and also with the intent to defeat and delay the operation of the bankrupt act: (2) That on February 12, 1873, he made a payment to Henry Wilmer, and on March 1, thereafter, a payment to Hunsaker, with intent thereby, to give each of them a preference.

The answer of respondent admits the making of the conveyance and payments, but denies the insolvency and that either such conveyance or payments were made with the intents alleged.

The evidence proves that at the dates of the alleged acts of bankruptcy the respondent owed not less than $1,700, and that his assets consisted of the furniture and fixtures of the Russ House, worth in cash, probably $1,200: a piece of land on the McAdam road worth not to exceed $150, and book accounts for board against 46 different persons, scattered over the coast, for sums ranging from $239 to $5—amounting in all to $2,954. Some of these accounts are 12 months overdue, one fourth of them are at least six months due and only $200 or $300 were charged within two months before the commencement of this proceeding. The opinion of the respondent's barkeeper is, that $1,500 of these accounts are good,—that is the persons who owe them will pay them when they get money, and he thinks they will have money sooner or later, and some of them before long. This of course amounts to nothing, there is really no evidence that a single dollar can be made on these accounts by law, and the strong probability is that they are not worth a cent. For the past nine months the respondent has been falling behind with his creditors, and the probabilities are, that good accounts against boarders by the week, would have been collected by him as they fell due.

It also appears that for at least 6 months prior to the filing of the petition the respondent was unable, and so stated to divers of his creditors, to pay the debts incurred in his business as they became due, in money; and that during that term for that reason he procured an extension of $700 or $800 of said debts.

As to whether the respondent's property was sufficient to pay his debts at the date of these transactions, the burden of proof is upon him. § 41 Bank. Act: In re Randal, 1 Deady, 559: In re Silverman, 1 Sawyer, 418. The evidence furnished by the respondent upon this point is not satisfactory and is altogether insufficient to establish the fact that this property could have been disposed of for cash at $1,700. It must also be borne in mind that the only portion of this property which appears to have had any market value, was the furniture, and to have sold this or any considerable portion of it, would have broken up respondent's business at once. Besides at least $300 worth of it was probably exempt from execution, the respondent being a householder.

But it is immaterial whether his property was sufficient to pay his debts or not. The respondent was an inn-keeper and a retail dealer in liquors, and therefore a trader, and being confessedly unable to pay his debts in money as they became due, in the ordinary course of business, he was insolvent. In Toof vs Martin, 13 Wal., 47, the Supreme Court affirmed the ruling of the court below, which was that "If the bankrupts" (who were traders), "could not pay their debts in the ordinary course of business, that is in money, as they fell due, they were insolvent;" and to the same effect has been the decisions of the District Courts. Indeed, it would be intolerable if a person in the situation of respondent, who refuses to pay the current bills of his baker, butcher and grocer as they become due, because he has no money to do so with, and at the same time pays and secures other creditors, could prevent the former from having him adjudged a bankrupt upon the doubtful ground that his property was equal in value to his debts, and therefore he was not insolvent.

The payments to Wilmer and Hunsaker are admitted, and the fact being that the respondent was then insolvent, the necessary effect of such payments was to give these creditors a preference, which was an act of bankruptcy. The necessary consequence of his acts the respondent is conclusively presumed to have intended, and therefore the denial in the answer of an intent to give a preference to these parties is of no effect. In re, Sutherland, 1 Deady, 348: In re, Silverman, 1 Sawyer, 418.

The conveyance to Crinnion is a mortgage which purports to have been given by respondent to secure the payment of a note of even date therewith, for $3,000 in coin, payable in one year with interest at the rate of one per centum per month. The property included in it was probably three-fourths in value of all the respondent possessed, subject to execution, and consisted of the furniture of the parlor and the 61 bed rooms in the Russ House. The instrument gave Crinnion power to take possession in case the note was not paid at maturity or at any time, in case she should "deem herself unsafe" and sell the property at public or private sale for the payment of the debt. The mortgage was filed on January 30, 1873, and on March 19, thereafter, purports to have been assigned by Crinnion for "a valuable consideration" to one Annie English.

On the trial Ryan testified that this note and mortgage was a scheme to raise money to pay his debts, but that no money was received upon it except $800 in currency, which was returned to English when she gave up the note and the transaction was rescinded, because the whole amount of the $3,000 could not be raised. The note was not produced on the trial and the mortgage still remains on file in the Clerk's office unsatisfied and uncanceled. Ryan stated that the note had been lying on the wash stand in his bed room, from the time it was returned to him, until the day of trial when it suddenly disappeared and has not been found, and that the $800 received on the note was paid to and returned by his wife. Under the act (§ 41) and upon general principles, the burden of proof is upon the respondent to show this mortgage to have been actually made upon the consideration and for the purposes expressed therein. The facts are peculiarly within his knowledge.

Neither Crinnion nor English are called as witnesses by him, or their absence attempted to be accounted for; while upon the evidence, their very existence is even doubtful. As the case appears in Court, there is no other conclusion reasonable, but that this mortgage was a mere sham and pretence from first to last. In point of fact, it was not true as therein represented, that respondent owed Crinnion the sum of $3,000 in coin, but only $800 in currency, and it is doubtful whether even that sum was received until after the making of the mortgage, if at all. The assignment to English purports to have been made as late as March 19th, and for "a valuable consideration," and although attested by counsel for respondent, no one was called to speak as to the amount or nature of such consideration, or the true character of the transaction. The strong probability is that this transfer is also a sham, and was put upon the instrument with the idea of giving color of good faith to the original transaction. The mortgage was left on file as an unsatisfied one, after, it is now claimed the transaction was rescinded, apparently for the purpose for which it appears to have been originally made and placed there, to keep off and deceive his creditors; and to this effect was respondent's declaration to the witness Rohr, one of his creditors, as late as February 1st. The power to enter and sell at "private sale" whenever the mortgagee might "deem herself unsafe," is a significant and suspicious circumstance, and might at any moment be used by the parties to this contrivance to put the barrier of another apparently innocent ownership between this property and the respondent's creditors.

The intent with which the transfer was made is a question of fact, but if the note and mortgage were fictitious, as it appears they were, then the only reasonable inference from the premises is, that it was done with intent to hinder and delay creditors, if not to defraud them. In re Drummond, 1 B. R., 10; Ecfort vs Greeley, 4 C. L. N., 209.

It is not an element of this act of bankruptcy that the respondent at the time of committing it should have been insolvent. A sale or transfer of property with intent to hinder, delay or defraud creditors is an act of bankruptcy, without reference to the solvency of the persons making it. In re, Randall, 1 Deady, 565.

On the argument counsel for the respondent seemed to assume that the enquiry as to his solvency was to be directed to the time of filing the petition. Insolvency alone is never an act of bankruptcy. In this case, respondent being insolvent on February 12th and March 1st, 1873, when he made payments to Wilmer and Hunsaker, thereby committed an act of bankruptcy. But his even becoming solvent afterwards, much less getting further time to pay his debts, would not condone or discharge this act of bankruptcy or prevent him from being adjudged a bankrupt therefor. And so with this mortgage; the question is, did the respondent at any time within six months before the filing of the petition, make it with the intent alleged, and not, did he afterwards and before the filing of the petition recant and procure the same to be canceled or rescinded? When an act of bankruptcy has been once committed, the debtor cannot be relieved from the legal consequences thereof, except by lapse of time or an arrangement with the creditors, who have the right to sue on account of it.

I find that the respondent has committed the acts of bankruptcy alleged in the petition, and adjudge him a bankrupt accordingly.

J. W. Whalley, for petitioners.
R. Williams & Q. P. Mason, for respondent.

THE TERRITORIES.

A young man and two young ladies were unceremoniously spilled out of a wagon by a runaway horse, at Olympia, on Monday last. No one but the horse and wagon injured.

The Intelligencer is credibly informed that the Central Pacific Railroad Company made an offer of $500,000 for the Port Madison Mills, shipping, real estate, etc., but it was declined.

Last week a man named Barney Quinn, at Seattle, met with severe injuries at the Lake Washington Coal Mines. While drifting, a heavy substance fell on his back, and crushed him to the earth.

Capt. Spotts, Superintendent of Lights, and Major Robert, of the U. S. corps of Engineers, are now engaged in examining Seattle Bay with the view of selecting a suitable site for a light house.

Mr. L. P. Venen, of Olympia, while driving a pair of horses attached to a wagon, last Monday, laden with pickets, was thrown off and under the wheels, which passed over his person, breaking his left leg in two places.

Colorado has been bragging of her beautiful weather all the past winter, but now the people are sighing for some "beautiful snow" to moisten the dry earth, which is so hard that it is almost impossible to plough, and unless relief comes soon crop prospects will be damaged.

The steamer Olympia is laid up in San Francisco harbor. Capt. Finch receives pay for keeping her off the Humboldt route; and, in addition thereto, it will be remembered he is also paid a handsome amount for having withdrawn her from the waters of Puget Sound.

A man named Ovid Mayhew was brought to town from Squak Lake yesterday, by Deputy Sheriff Webster. For some time, the unfortunate fellow has been out of his mind, but lately has shown dangerous symptoms. He is now confined, awaiting the the Governor's certificate to be taken to Steilacoom.

For some months past, the Seattle Masonic Cemetery Association has been actively engaged constructing roads, and clearing and laying off, into lots, for burial purposes, twenty acres of the land recently purchased by that body on the heights between the arms of Lake Union. Already five acres have been cleared, and a fine road constructed from the city; and in a short period, a neat fence will be erected.

The Tribune says: "A practical ship builder is now on the Sound, looking at the facilities presented by this favored section for the advancement of his business. He has been at several of the mills, and at some of the towns, looking for a site for a large yard and for the place presenting the greatest advantages. He surely can be satisfied in this section if in any part of the United States. The builder referred to is represented to us as a man of capital, sufficient to carry on the business on a large scale, and of a scientific and thoroughly practical character."

The Seattle Intelligencer says: "Notwithstanding the reports circulated in this locality for some time, concerning the solvency of the firm of Meigs & Gawley, we are reliably informed by a gentleman who has just returned from San Francisco, that there is no foundation whatever for such reports. On the contrary, G. A. Meigs, Esq., during his stay in San Francisco settling up with his late partner, received most liberal offers of assistance from leading commercial men, who have implicit confidence in him. He is now perfecting arrangements in that city for the successful prosecution of his business, and may be looked for home in three or four weeks."

The public mind has been somewhat agitated with the Modoc war, an occasional marine or railway disaster, and the dull times, and the prospect of buying clothing at a figure not large enough to clean a man to the bedrock. The place has been found where you can buy men and boy's clothing, or gentlemen's furnishing goods at the very lowest prices. It is at Beck & Waldman's corner of Front and Washington street, where a full assortment of men and boys' clothing, in the latest styles, can be selected from.

The Raymond and Ely Mining Company vs Hermes Company. We, the jurors empanneled in this case, find a verdict for the defendant.—A. A. Wilcox, foreman; J. Wagner, Joseph Cook, John A. Dowell, Henry Morris, Edward Gallagher, Charles Stein, E. Haggins, Jonas Cohn."

In a street fracas to-day, a man named Thomas Welch struck Frank Poole on the head with a pistol, inflicting a slight scalp wound. Poole drew a revolver and shot Welch, the ball passing through his bowels and coming out through the hip. Welch lies in a critical condition.

James Cutts was accidentally shot in the hand. Not dangerous.

Several small fights have taken place during the day. There is great excitement on the streets over the result of the Raymond and Ely trial.

In the case of the Raymond and Ely, Judge Fuller has ordered the release of Joseph E. Patten, sentenced to imprisonment at an early stage of the trial for contempt.

PIOCHE, May 1.—About $40,000 changed hands on the result of the jury deliberation. I. B. E. Cavalier won thirty seven hundred dollars. The verdict gives general satisfaction. Plaintiff will move for new trial, but as plaintiff has only three or four unimportant exceptions, Hermes men feel confident of their failure to change the verdict here or in the Supreme Court. Defendants in Raymond & Ely vs Kentucky will press for immediate trial.

ELKO, May 1.—The mail carriers in from the north report the settlers greatly alarmed at Mountain City. The Snake and Piute Indians are pouring in from all directions. They are painted in war style, and cause a great alarm. The people of the Cape District and Mountain City were to have a public meeting this week to take measures to procure arms and be prepared in case of an outbreak.

ARIZONA.

SAN DIEGO, May 1.—Tucson dates to the 24th say that two Mexicans came into Camp McDowell, and reported that one of their number had been killed by Apaches. The troops sent out found the murdered man, but no trail of the Indians. It is suspected that he was murdered by his companions.

From Mexico we learn that Lozada is strongly entrenched in the mountains back of Japu, with a force of 4,000. Six thousand Federal troops are in the field against him.

From the Sonora News: Apaches have killed over one hundred persons on Mexican territory within the past three months.

Gold was found in gravel while digging a cellar in San Diego to-day. Several claims have been staked off.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30.—The following dispatch from Cheyenne, will explain why we are unable to obtain any news from the East this morning:

CHEYENNE, April 30.—The storm commenced here about six o'clock this morning, and it extends as far east as Grand Island, Nebraska. The train from the East arrived six hours late. Nothing is known of the condition of the Railroad Telegraph lines east of North Platte. The weather here is moderating, and communication will probably be re-established early to-morrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—A. Seligman returned from Europe last evening, having perfected arrangements for establishing the Anglo-California Bank.

The steamer Whipple took a large number of people to Benicia to-day to witness the opening of the Central Narrow Gauge Railroad.

The news of the decision in favor of the Hermes Mining Company, caused intense excitement on the street among brokers. Raymond and Ely fell at once to $24. From the sales yesterday, we expect to hear of heavy losses on Raymond, as extensive purchases were made in expectation that the Company would win the suit. One operator said he had lost $10,000, whereas he expected to have realized twice that amount. The result of operations in the Stock Board is looked for with great interest.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1—Evening.—The Colorado for China to-day took $205,900 in treasure, and a cargo valued at $100,000. M. Yuna, Japanese Commissioner of Agriculture, sailed to-day and took four Durham cows and 500 rabbits.

The Grand Army of the Republic has taken measures to participate in the honors paid to the remains of Gen. Canby.

There were five May Day picnics from the city to-day.

The coinage at the Mint for April was $1,362,000.

The work of demolishing the buildings on the line of Montgomery avenue commenced to-day with the Exchange Building, corner of Washington and Montgomery street.

E. H. Warsaw, commander of the Colorado, was arrested for violation of the passenger act in taking on on board at Hong Kong and bringing here 1,258 Chinese, a number greater than the law allows. He gave bail in the sum of $12,500 and sailed away.

The mining stock market has been greatly excited all day.

The verdict in the Hermes case, and the money won and lost thereon, is the topic of conversation everywhere.

There are 912 prisoners in San Quentin.

In consequence of the epizootic the spring running meeting at Oakland Trotting Park, announced for May 6th, has been postponed till the 13th.

The body found in the bay this morning has not been identified.

Several more fatal cases of the horse disease are reported to-day.

John T. Little, accused of defrauding H. R. McNevin out of a due bill for about $2,000, signed by Tyler Curtis, was discharged by the Police Court this evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Passengers overland arrived to-night: C. Moore, Walla Walla; G. A. Langley, Victoria.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—A theater to cost $250,000, is to be built this summer on Mission street near Third. The building will be three stories high, and will seat 2,350 people. The contract calls for the completion by September next.

The funeral of Lieut. Dennison, who killed himself in this city, took place at Columbus, Ohio, to-day. Mrs. Dennison is still in this city.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

BENICIA, May 1.—The ceremony of breaking ground for the new narrow-guage railroad was had at Benicia to-day. Senator Cole made a stirring speech. About 1,500 people were present.

SMARTSVILLE, May 1.—While John McConnell's little boy was climbing up the forward wheel of his father's wagon to receive a package, the brake slipped, and the wagon started forward, throwing him under the wheel, which passed over his head and crushed it, causing instant death.

DANVILLE, Cal., May 1.—George Hardy shot a Frenchman named Captain Case, to-day, near this place, about a mining claim. One of the bullets took effect in the abdomen, and is likely to prove fatal. Hardy is about 60 years of age and has a large family. He came to town and surrendered himself to the sheriff.

LOS ANGELES, May 1.—The Government improvements on Wilmington harbor promises now more than ever to be a perfect success. From General Banning we learn that this morning at low tide there were fourteen feet of water on the bar, where there had been but twelve inches heretofore. It is believed there will be twenty feet of water on the bar at low tide when the work is completed.

STOCKTON, May 1.—While the Hook and Ladder truck was returning from a fire this morning, Phil. Brown was caught by the rope and thrown to the ground. The truck wheel struck him on the head cutting a severe gash behind the left ear.

Company C, National Guard, of San Francisco, arrived here this evening and were received at the depot by the Stockton Guard, and a large concourse of citizens. To-morrow, a target excursion and picnic will take place at Good-water Grove, and in the evening a grand military promenade concert and ball. Governor Booth and staff will be present.

The Springfield Republican of April 18th gives publicity to a most disgraceful scene which occurred recently in the Massachusetts General Court:

Mr. Hoyt, who had been attending a festal gathering of "loyal soldiers," of the class that were so "insulted" by Senator Sumner's battle-flag resolution of 1862 that it took them 10 years to find words to express themselves about it—came up to the House on Friday afternoon in such a drunken condition that everybody saw at a glance what ailed him. His companions and a member of his family endeavored to get him away, fearing that he might disgrace himself still more publicly if he remained. But when he had been persuaded to withdraw, in a spirit of tipsy obstinacy and suspicion he insisted on returning, and came into the House when the discussion of the bill incorporating the Boston Mortgage company was just beginning. According to report he had agreed to make a speech in favor of the bill; but the liquor in him protested against the galling restraint of a promise made when he was sober, and he rushed at once into the arena, declaiming against it. What he said was no more absurd than his manner was drunken and disgusting to the last degree. For some reason or other, Col. Codman, who was presiding in the speaker's absence, did not call him to order, and the entreaties and remonstrances of his friends could not check him. He rambled about the aisles and passages, gesticulating wildly and pouring forth his invariable nonsense, with abrupt yells and maudlin profundity. His timid followers, too much in awe of their chosen chief to put a stop to the scene by sharp measures, rushed from their seats and left the House without a quorum, whereupon Mr. Bailey of Charlestown called for an adjournment, which cut short the scandal and the debate at once.

LATEST FROM THE FRONT!

All Quiet in the Lava Bed.

YREKA, May 1.—Captain Silva and W. S. Johnson arrived from the front this afternoon. They left General Gillem's camp Tuesday morning. We learn there has been nothing done since the battle of the 26th. Everything quiet. No future policy of fighting the Modocs is settled upon. The opinion prevailed that it is perfect folly to attempt to try to whip the Modocs in the manner thus far pursued. No scouting has been done. Eight bodies are known to be lying upon the field of battle. Captain Mendenhall's command arrived at the camp south of Tule Lake on the 28th.

YREKA, May 1.—Upon the arrival of the remains of the officers killed at the Lava Beds, they were taken to the Masonic Hall. The coffins were opened and carbolic acid injected into the bodies. Maj. Thomas was in a good state of preservation; so was Col. Wright, but Capt. Howe was not, and was much disfigured. They were all encased in zinc coffins, and will be forwarded to Redding to-morrow morning in charge of Lieut. Taylor, Fourth Artillery. Only a few persons were permitted to see the bodies while here.

All the families on Bogus and Butte Creeks have left, deserting their ranches.

Batteries A and K have been consolidated under the command of Lieut. Harry. Companies E and G, Twelfth Infantry, are consolidated under the command of Lieut. Camp. It is probable no active movement will be made against the Modocs at present.

OREGON.

The spire of the new M. E. Church South in Salem will be 99 feet high.

Salem merchants play base ball with one another during these dull times.

Rev. Martin Judy, who has recently been transferred to the Oregon Conference from some point in the East, has been assigned to the Clear Creek and Oregon City circuit.

The number of money orders issued during the month of May at the Salem Postoffice: The whole number of money orders issued was 144, making an aggregate amount of about $2,821 48.

The Statesman says: "But [illegible] marriage licenses were issued during the month of April at the County Clerk's office. What can the matter be. We presume that owing to the dull times, but young marriageable gents that can find any to have them, can't afford to invest in such costly luxuries. We do not mean licenses, but wives."

There are within the bounds of the Oregon Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church ten ordained ministers of the Gospel, and three probationers for the ministry, nine congregations, and eighty-two new names to the church [illegible] report; number in communion, 290; amount [illegible] of the church for the last year for the support of the ministry and other institutions of the church, between $5,000 and $6,000.

The Oregon Presbytery of the C. P. Church held its semi-annual session with the [illegible] congregation, convening on the 17th and [illegible] on the 19th of April. Revs. Neill Johnson, R. P. Henderson, D. M. Keane, S. T. Mill and T. H. Henderson were present; also, representatives from four congregations. Revs. T. H. Small, A. W. Sweeney and J. B. V[illegible] were absent, and several congregations not represented. Rev. R. P. Henderson was chosen Moderator, and T. H. Henderson, Clerk. The usual Presbyterial business was transacted. Peace and harmony prevailed during the entire session. The reports of the several ministers of their labors and success for the past six months were, on the whole, encouraging. The report of the Committee on the State of Religion and Statistics of the Church was very interesting and full of comfort.

Revival of the Brownsville Mills.

SALEM, April 24, 1873.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

As a natural result of the spirit of enterprise, commendable efforts were made by Oregon's early settlers to establish manufactories. Six woolen mills appeared to enter upon a prosperous career, and all have been in operation at nearly the same time. Disaster by fire awaited the [illegible]; one has been despoiled of its machinery with which to supply a new enterprise in Washington Territory; one has been rebuilt but has not been in operation for five years; another has been kept running by only one man and his daughters for several months, and another is rebuilding; leaving only one mill to represent the cloth-wearing interest of Oregon as home industry. And what with attempts to freeze out, and idleness, our manufacturing interest has been placed in a discouraging condition?

We trust that confidence will be restored and rewarded. It is with pleasure therefore that we note the change [illegible] of the Brownsville factory, by [illegible] capable manufacturing [illegible] the above mentioned man and his daughters who having been engaged no less than fifty years in such pursuits, eight of them in Oregon. The merchants and people of Brownsville have generously given the necessary support, and we hope to see that our State will patronize them in their efforts and soon raise itself. As the best kind of [illegible] wool is raised in that portion of the Wallamet valley it should be able, in the hands of these mechanics, to recommend itself as capable of being worked into such articles of cloth as to suit the most fastidious. A sufficient guaranty of this new competition has already been acknowledged by an offer by the [illegible] Bros. to sell their goods for them, but other parties largely interested in the mill building, are favored with that privilege, and will make the [illegible] sion a success. OPERA-FLANNEL.

Letter from Lafayette.

LAFAYETTE, May 1, 1873.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

As indicated in my note yesterday, the Judge made short work of the latter half of the seventy witnesses in the Coxen-Hasbrock murder trial. The prosecution rested when a few witnesses were examined on the part of the defence. Nothing new has been indicated for either side. In the afternoon the testimony was closed and argument by counsel was opened by a lengthy and eloquent discourse by McCain for the defense, followed by Hurley for the State. Pending the lengthy remarks of the Lion of Polk for the prisoner, which lasted until a late hour, the Court adjourned until this morning, when the case was opened by Mr. Sullivan resuming his speech, which had not closed at last advices. Boise, on the part of the State, will close the argument, and sometime to-day the case will go to the jury.

Cornelius and Hillsboro are here on a picnic excursion, to the number of five car loads with the engine and tender crowded. I am not certain but that there were some on the cow catcher. The excursion is accompanied by a band of music, who came into town with a flourish of trumpets. They are having a pleasant time. There are some three hundred and fifty of the picnickers and all is going off "merry as a marriage bell."

The Khivan Expedition.

The frequent mention in the cable dispatches of the Russian expedition into Khiva, would seem to indicate that the matter is of some importance, and yet little has been published in regard to the circumstances out of which the expedition was undertaken, or its causes. There does appear to be a vague and indefinite notion in the public mind that the purpose of the expedition is mainly the aggrandizement of Russia at the expense of her pagan neighbors, and that, but for the fact that those neighbors are pagan, the conduct of the Czar would be wholly indefensible. This notion had its origin in the protest of the British Government against the operations of the Czar, in Asia, last fall, and has been stimulated and strengthened by the popular and traditional idea that every stroke of Russian policy is a stroke of Russian grandeur. Americans cannot be easily made to believe the Russian Government to be capable of any other unworthy motive, but they always accept as the truth in relation to any given movement of the Russian Government, a statement that the matter is intended solely for the aggrandizement of the Muscovite and his empire.

It is meet that Americans should think better than this, of the only great nation of Europe that refused to believe any evil of us during our great trouble, if the truth will warrant a better opinion; it is meet at any rate that before accepting any opinion adverse to that friendly nation, Americans should look into the case. This Khivan expedition, it appears from official exposition of its causes and objects, is by no means a wanton enterprise for conquest, but a war that can be justified upon the highest principles of international honor. The story is a very short one and very plain. The Czar has extensive dominions in the central and western part of Asia. About the shores of the Caspian Sea the Russian territory is inhabited by a peaceable people, even the nomadic tribes that frequent that region being quiet and inoffensive, and those inhabitants who occupy the rich valleys of the Caspian coast being industrious and enterprising. With all the pagan and Mohammedan peoples adjacent excepting the Khivans, the subjects of the Czar have long sustained relations of amity and interchange of commerce. The Czar, naturally desirous of extending the commerce of his subjects into all the rich country to the east, has tried in many ways to obtain a treaty with the Khan of Khiva, placing that principality upon the same relations with Russia as other similar countries occupied, but all his efforts in this direction proved unavailing. Some of the other eastern Princes, on several occasions have tendered their good offices to mediate a treaty, but without effect. Their overtures were invariably spurned by the Khan, with insults and insolence. Thus matters stood until two or three years ago, when the Khivans, doubtless construing the peaceful course of the Russians as an evidence of timidity, began to make raids upon the Russian frontier for the purpose of plunder. They even carried off into captivity large numbers of Russian subjects, as well as their property. The Czar could not overlook this conduct, and he sent to the Khan a demand, not for satisfaction, as would have been expected, but simply for information whether these invasions of Russian territory were carried on by authority of the Khan. To this demand no reply came. It was treated with silent contempt. The Czar then sent a formal demand for the release of the Russian subjects held in captivity. This demand also was not honored with even an acknowledgment of its receipt. Of course there was only one course left to Russia: hostilities must follow.

But as soon as active preparations for the expedition began to be observed, the Khan sent an embassy to the Czar to make terms of accommodation. The Czar refused to receive the embassadors, or to hold any communication whatever with them or their master, unless the captives should be liberated and the former insults explained. This was made a condition precedent to any negotiations, and the conditions not being complied with, the expedition was pushed forward. It was under these circumstances that the war was commenced, and is prosecuted.

Alfred Tennyson, née poet, later politician, renews his ululation against the London Times. He has dropped the spiritual weapons of transcendental rhyme, and in their stead swings a carnal truncheon of prosiest prose with a noticeable artlessness that makes it extremely uncertain just where his blows are going to fall. We believe his assault on "The Thunderer" created little stir, from the sad fact, perhaps, that the masses of England were puzzled by the obscurity of his verse. But mayhap Mr. Tennyson is writing for posterity on this question of Canadian annexation. At any rate, he has his eye on a certain posthumous notoriety, as witness this extract from a letter (recently published) to a Canadian gentleman: "I would not wish anything better for my sons, nor would they for themselves, than that they should devote their lives toward helping this 'seamless union.'" He next entreats the people of Canada to "turn a deaf ear to any who may hold a less loyal language," assuring them that "it is not England who speaks through any such." The laureate has failed, so far, in eliciting any reply from the Times. It might be somewhat strange were it othewise.

A Sacramento paper thinks that the glories of '49 are about to dawn again upon the foot hills of California. "Color" has been struck near Oroville, and already a thousand almond-eyed Argonauts are delving with pick and shovel. "Old and experienced miners" assure a correspondent that the placers are richer than any of the old diggings. One man refused $20,000 for his claim. Five Chinamen made $300 in one day. Four Chinamen made other $300. These are facts. All this while a delicate green tint suffuses the retina of the ungullible reader.

It is announced that Mark Twain and Charles Dudley Warner are engaged in writing a novel in partnership. It will be in the nature of a satire and will attack the salient points of American life of to day. The N. Y. Tribune is authorized to announce that it is no holiday work, and that the paper on which it is written cost eleven dollars.

From a report of the Committee on Statistics of the National Board of Underwriters, we learn that there are in the United States, 49,844 cotton, paper, flouring and grist mills, boot and shoe factories, woolen mills and hardware manufactories.

France has disposed of 1,132 Communists by condemning them to exile in the Isle of Pines.

How To Do It.

A meeting of representatives of different railway companies was held at the Sherman House, Chicago, on the 10th of April, to consult upon the best means of counteracting the efforts of the people to protect themselves against the extortions of the companies. As a matter of course, all newspaper reporters were excluded. Meetings for such a purpose are not, like meetings of other commercial interests of the country, matters of such public importance as to justify their being made public. Certain kinds of meetings, although the subjects discussed vitally concern the public, do not get along well in the sunlight. They must be kept dark.

But sufficient of the proceedings of this Chicago meeting came out through a disagreement between the representatives of certain Western lines to show what sort of means it was considered proper to use in order to effect the main object in view. The thing to be done was to get control of the Legislatures. That is the favorite policy of these corporations. True, it costs something to run a Legislature, even the little body that bears the name in Oregon, having once cost one railway master, according to his sworn statement, a very considerable sum; but to own the Legislature is the certain way to compass the subjection of the entire community to the squeezing process, and the squeezing process is the certain way to get back all the money paid for the Legislature with usury. So the Chicago meeting resolved not to abandon the old and tried policy. Some other way might require a less outlay of ready money, and be equally successful, but that is to be tried. The plan of getting control of the Legislature is no experiment, it has been tried, and has proved to be all that could be desired; it has been weighed in the balance and has in no essential respect been found wanting.

But we are a little surprised to think this meeting would have given any considerable amount of discussion to the question. They all knew what they wanted to do and just how to do it. It may be, however, they were drawn together by the idea that united action would enable them to purchase Legislatures cheaper than they could do while competition was sharp.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided, that in a case where the sender of a telegraph message fails to have the same repeated, or insured, the Company sending can not be held liable. Chief-Justice Chapman said, in concluding: "It seems to us that one who elects to save the small sum charged for a more extended liability, cannot reasonably claim the benefit of it, in a business where careful operators are so liable to make mistakes."

At the Easter service in Grace Church, New York city, upward of $12,000 was contributed toward the support of the aged and orphans of the Church Charity Foundation, to which was added about $1,000 by the children of the Sunday School, at their annual festival in the afternoon.

The Spanish authorities in Cuba "don't scare worth a cent." The intercession of Consul-General Torbert for O'Kelly, the New York Herald's belligerent correspondent, were unavailing, and the fellow has been sent to Santiago for trial as a spy.

In his address to the colored people of the District of Columbia, at the celebration of the eleventh anniversary of emancipation in the District, Prof. R. T. Greener, orator of the day, related the following reminiscence of war days.

It was after 9 o'clock on the evening of April 15, 1862, when Senator Sumner, being no longer able to restrain his pent up anxiety, called on Mr. Lincoln. He was received with that cordiality and respect which Mr Lincoln always manifested toward him. "Do you know who at this moment is the largest slaveholder in this country?" he asked of the astonished President. "It is Abraham Lincoln; for he holds all the three thousand slaves of the District, which is more than any other person in the country holds." He then pleaded with the President for his signature to the bill; showed him the value of it as a precedent to the country, and as a stimulus to the anti slavery element of the Republican party, as an act of justice to the suffering and the lowly, reminding him of his own humble origin, and the curse which slavery had thrown about his early days. Then, warming with that enthusiasm for which our great Senator is so noted, he said, "Why, Mr President, I cannot see how you dare trust yourself to sleep to-night, commending yourself to your Maker, and remember that you have it in your power to free 3,000 human beings! Suppose you should die to-night, do you think your spirit could look back on this great act of justice unperformed and feel that Abraham Lincoln had done his duty?" The next morning, fellow citizens, as if in response to this grand appeal, the flashing wires sent forth the message of the President approving the bill.

The General Court of Massachusetts has under consideration a bill which proposes to appropriate the sum of $50,000 toward the support of the Cambridge Museum of Comparative Zoölogy. This Institution is a pet of the great Agassiz. Its objects and his hopes are best explained in the following extract from an address before the House of Representatives:

In giving the history of the Museum the Professor spoke of the debt he owed the people of the United States, and particularly the people of Boston, and said his idea of repayment was the devotion of his life to the fostering of an institution for the advancement of those branches of science with which he was more familiar. It was his great aim to make the place the equal of the British Museum, so far as zoology was concerned, and so place America in a position where she would be no longer tributary to other parts of the world, but where she could safely rely upon her own resources. Institutions of the kind were a national desideratum, and he held that the work should be carried out on the most liberal plan. There was too much of the elementary in our plan of education, and a training was needed in the new methods by which knowledge can be acquired. He appealed for the appropriation of $50,000 now desired, in order that the working force of the museum should not be disorganized and scattered.

From the European correspondence of the New York papers, one would infer that the authorities at the Vatican are striving to keep the real truth concerning Pius IX.'s illness from the world. The London correspondent of the N. Y. World says on this subject:

I have just received a dispatch direct from high authority in Rome, which declares the condition of the Pope's health to be such as, considering his greatly advanced age, to render his very early if not immediate demise almost a certainty.

He is now lethargic, giving scarcely any indication of realization of pain, while the conditions which have heretofore produced it acutely are known to remain. This later condition has caused his professional attendants to resign all hope of his recovery through his own mental and physical strength and power for endurance, and though his physicians are interdicted from issuing bulletins of his case and the press from the publication of reports, his recovery is known to have been pronounced impossible.

If it can possibly be accomplished his death will be kept secret until the ecclesiastical conclave shall have chosen his successor. This will be done in the hope of more effectively avoiding interference in the choice of his successor by either Germany or Italy or both.

All the cardinals save two are now in the Vatican, and 400 of the Papal troops are also inside. No one else is allowed to enter.

A Protest from Wallowa Valley.

A BORDERER'S VIEW OF THE INDIAN PROBLEM.

WALLOWA VALLEY, April 25, 1873.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

As the settlement of the Indian question is the all-important theme with the settlers in this valley, you will greatly oblige us by giving space to a brief protest against the policy that seems to have been adopted by those who have power to enforce policies, i. e., the begging and hiring of Indians to behave themselves.

It was with indignation and shame that we read your reported account of the great pow wow that Superintendent Odeneal held with that vagabond Indian, Joseph, and his followers, to think that a person occupying so high an official position, should beg and offer to hire these worthless Indians to let the settlers alone until he could hear what his Great Father had to say about it, instead of telling them, as General Jackson would have done, "Go on to the reservation and stay there, or by the Eternal we will exterminate you," and if they did not go make his word good, or let the settlers know of their refusal to go on the reservation,—we would have seen that they did not get the start of us. But instead of doing one of these things, the Superintendent suffered the impudence of these Indians without saying a word in return. Nay, he rather held out inducements, by questions and otherwise, to lead them to believe that they could get this valley for a reservation, if they would continue to threaten and be obstinate. As to their getting this fair valley, I think their chances are exceedingly slim. The settlers are extremely well satisfied with their homes. Many have come hither at considerable of sacrifice, and they intend to stay here, providing, always, that the Government does not take sides with the Indians. They feel capable of taking care of themselves, if let alone by Peace Commissioners, and if they be not "pow wowed" out of their rights. Now, why not deal in facts with Indians, as with whites. This lying policy of "pow-wow" (as Lish Applegate calls it) has been in use long enough. It is time we tried another kind.

We have just heard of the treacherous and cowardly murder of the Peace Commissioners by the Modocs. It was with curious sensations that we read the account of that startling affair. While we have held no enmity toward any member of the Commission, and while we sympathise with the friends and families of the sufferers, we feel now as we have always felt that nothing short of such treacherous conduct on the part of the red devils, nothing less than so costly a sacrifice, would suffice to awaken the powers that be to a realization of the true character of those Indian fiends. So it is, that eighteen of our fellow-citizens can be murdered, their families outraged and butchered, and our Government will coax, beg, and hire these imps of hell to behave themselves. But let an high toned officer—or even office seeker—be killed, or mortally wounded, and then our mock philanthropists cry, savagely, "On to the Lava Bed! slay, kill, and spare not! For they have slain some of the mighty men of Israel!"

But enough of this. All we settlers ask of the Government is, to deal justly with the Indians. Keep all peace commissioners away from us, and give us leave to tame all wild Indians found off the reservations. We will agree to lessen the number of rations now issued by agents to these vagabonds. It is believed here that we would have had a large increase of population had it not been for the Superintendent's interference in this Indian question. We managed the Indians last year without any trouble, when there was not one-sixth the population here that there is at present. But perhaps it would be but partial justice to Mr. Odeneal to state that there has been a great deal of Indian talk by persons who knew nothing whatever of the actual state of affairs. There has been a studied effort, on the part of certain individuals in this county, to create an excitement. These parties are men of considerable influence. They may have represented matters to Mr. Odeneal in such a manner as to lead him to believe that the Indians actually meant an outbreak. But I really believe that if no council had been held, it would have been better for both whites and Indians. WALLOWA.

A SEVERE HIT.—The Green Bay (Wis.) Advocate relates the following, which gives a severe stab at the free pass system generally as applied to public conveyances.

A prominent lawyer related to me an anecdote of the late Nicholas Hill of Albany, which seems to be in point on this subject. Hill, one day, in arguing an important case against a railroad company, before the Court of Appeals, dwelt largely on the aggressions and abuses of railroads, and gave a history of them in the State of New York for the previous twenty-five years. When he had finished his narration he raised up, and pointing his finger at the court, said "Your Honor, if this condition of things is permitted to go on for fifty years to come, as it has for the past twenty, the railroads will almost dare to presume to tender passes to gentleman occupying your high position," and, said my friend, "Hill knew perfectly well that all of the Judges had passes in their pockets when he was addressing them."

A STORY OF AUGUST BELMONT.—Speaking of bankers, I am reminded, as the great and good Abraham Lincoln was so fond of saying, of a little story. August Belmont, reported to be somewhat irascible at times, had not long ago a private secretary to whom he sometimes showed his unamiability. One morning, in his Wall street office, the eminent banker picked up a letter his secretary had written, and, not finding it satisfactory, exclaimed with much temper: "This is wrong again. D—n it. I have often told you exactly how these letters should be written." "Mr. Belmont," remarked the scribe, rising from his seat, "I do not wish you to swear at me. I do my duty faithfully, and my salary is not large enough to enable me to afford to do my work and be sworn at besides." "How much do you get?" quoth Belmont. "Fifteen hundred dollars," was the answer. "Draw $3,000, G— d—n! and do the work as I want it." Since then the salary has been regularly paid, and Belmont swears at his secretary as much as he likes. The report that the banker wished to withhold $750 for not indulging in the luxury of profanity during a six months' absence in Europe is, I am authorized to say, wholly without foundation.—St. Louis Globe.

PRINTING OFFICE FOR SALE.—A Newspaper and a thoroughly equipped Job office, in one of the most thriving towns on the N. W. coast, is for sale. Does a large amount of Job work and has a large and increasing subscription list and is otherwise prosperous. Either a half or whole interest will be sold. TERMS: part cash and part on time, or will trade for negotiable paper. The proprietor has a business engagement in the States, and offers to sell for that reason only. For particulars enquire of H. L. Pittock, Portland.

The advertising house of Geo. P. Rowell & Co. has already gained a world wide reputation. Its business is being extended every month, and it now has contracts for space in nearly every newspaper published in the United States and Canadas. Messrs Geo P. Rowell & Co have evinced a remarkable business tact, and have reduced the advertising system down to a very nice science.—Journal Recorder, West Meriden, Conn.

CITY.

Frightened at Her Own Husband.—Last Saturday night the usual quiet and peaceable household of a gentleman residing near the foot of Robinson Hill, in this city, was thrown into a state of intense excitement, which, although of momentary duration, roused the whole neighborhood. On the night in question, the gentleman being detained by business down in the city, did not return home until a late hour. It was after the hour described by divine William, when "grave yards yawn," that the gentleman approached his domestic castle. Wearied with the labors of the day, the wife had retired to her couch several hours before her liege lord put in an appearance, and was locked in sound slumber, when his returning foot-falls were heard on the door step. To light her husband into the house on his return, the dutiful spouse had left a lamp dimly burning on the center table in the parlor. "Hubby," knowing the wife was serenely traversing the shadowy realms of Nod, came in as softly as a cat, and began to divest himself of his clothes. He succeeded in placing himself dishabille without disturbing the quiet slumbers of the wife. Leaving the lamp burning low in the parlor, the gentleman carefully ensconced himself in the blankets by the side of the sleeping form of his wife. In a few minutes sweet oblivion swept over his waking senses and he, too, was asleep. But while he slept, the wife, disturbed by dreams or some noise, suddenly awoke. The chamber door was closed, and the sleeping apartment was dark as Erebus. Roused from a condition of unconsciousness, the wife reached forth her hand which was brought in contact with the face of the oblivious husband. Forgetting the fact that she had a husband, and hesitating to reason for an instant, the thoroughly frightened woman, supposed the sanctity of her chamber had been invaded and desecrated by vandal presence. Uttering the startling cry of "murder," she leaped out of bed, and rushed to the front door, repeating in a loud voice her frantic calls for assistance. Several neighbors were aroused by the outcries and came running to the scene with all haste, supposing some horrid deed of bloodshed was being perpetrated. Meantime the noise had aroused the somnambulic husband, who sprang out of bed to find out what the trouble was. Just as several men and women from the vicinity came running to the front door, the gentleman entered the hall, rubbing his eyes and looking not a little puzzled at what was being enacted. The sudden appearance of the husband clad in the scant vestiture of sleep, was a denouement to the exciting scene. Mutual explanations rapidly followed, and the semi-nude assemblage dispersed to their respective couches in less time than it requires to write. The moral of all this is plain. First, husbands should never remain out so late, and, second, always leave a light burning in the bed chamber.

Full of Errors.—The reporters seemed to have labored under a general tendency to get things wrong in their report of the proceedings of the meeting of the Common Council on last Wednesday evening—several of the members having asked that they be set right before the public, partly in regard to their vote upon some questions that came before the meeting. The votes which were reported wrong were in the matter of the adoption of the report of the Committee on Ways and Means on the petitions of the Oregon and California Railroad Company, Henry Dosche and Mrs. A. E. Mills for reductions on their several assessments. These petitions had been referred to the committee at a previous meeting, and they reported against the allowance of the prayer of the petitions of the Oregon and California Railroad Company and Mr. Dosche, and in favor of allowing that of Mrs. Mills, for the reason as substantially set forth in the report, that the two former had not made their applications [illegible] and the error, if any, in their cases was [illegible] one; that applications made by [illegible] persons under similar circumstances had been refused, and that the error in the case of Mrs. Mills was purely a clerical one on the part of the Assessor. Councilman Caywood moved to lay that part of the report referring to the Oregon and California Railroad Company on the table. The motion was lost by the following vote:

Ayes—Councilmen Caywood, Congle and Russell.

Noes—Councilmen Besser, Hallock, Hill and [illegible].

Councilman Hill then moved that the entire report be adopted. After discussion the motion was [illegible] and carried.

Those voting aye were Councilman Besser, Hallock, Hill, Russell and Story.

Those voting no were Councilmen Caywood, [illegible] and Moreland.

There are other errors in some of the papers [illegible] are not so material, but which ought to have been corrected.

Now, Mr. Councilmen, on behalf of the reporters we have apologized, and we ask a similar apology from you for keeping us at the meeting so late with your long speeches.

Red Men's Picnic.—Tammany Day, on the 12th of this month, will be duly celebrated by the Order of Independent Red Men, with an excursion, picnic, oration, etc. The Committee of arrangements have concluded to hold the picnic on the Wallamet at a point on the western bank [illegible]. The splendid steamer Annie [illegible] has been chartered expressly for the occasion. This steamer will leave in the morning having on board the excursionists, pass up through the locks to the picnic grounds, and return in the evening. A platform is being constructed at the grounds 60x100 feet for the accommodation of dancers. Music on the occasion will be furnished by the East Portland Brass and String Band.

"Bucked Off."—"A solitary horseman might have been seen" riding up Washington street last night about 7 o'clock. Suddenly a small dog [illegible] and began barking at the horse's heels. The animal [illegible] commenced to kick violently and to buck. The rider not being an experienced [illegible], soon found an involuntary abdication of the saddle necessary. This feat he performed in [illegible] style, making, in the descent, a [illegible], and reaching terra firma about a rod distant. Fortunately, presence of mind did not desert the rider at the crisis, and he managed to escape with but a few bruises. The horse continued to "buck" until even the saddle was dislodged. The little accident drew a large crowd of spectators.

Sash Ready.—The windows for the new Trinity Church building arrived on the last steamer, work will be resumed at once on the building and [illegible] until the windows are all placed in and [illegible] of the interior completed. [illegible] weeks will be required to perform this [illegible]. Mr. Geo. L. DePrans has written a letter to San Francisco to a large firm of organ builders in that city, requesting that two of their experienced builders hold themselves in readiness to come to Portland at the first notification. These [illegible] will probably arrive in two weeks and [illegible] putting up the large organ which arrived [illegible] the age. Trinity Church will not be [illegible] for several months to come.

Has Turned Over.—Mr. Henry L. Hoyt [illegible] removal from the position of Deputy [illegible] of Customs for this port, turned over the [illegible] and moneys in his possession to his successor in office, Mr. F. N. Shurtleff, on Wednesday. Mr. S. has been for several years second [illegible], and by the removal of Mr. Hoyt is promoted to the position of first deputy. The position [illegible] vacant by the promotion of Mr. [illegible] is filled at present by John P. Ward, for [illegible] of years County Jailor. Since the creation of this port of entry Mr. Hoyt has filled the [illegible] position with credit, and discharged [illegible] duty with the strictest fidelity.

Memorial Day.—Gen. A. E. Burnside, Commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has issued an order recommending that in [illegible] arrangements for the observance of Memorial Day (May 30,) departments and posts take such action as will secure the co-operation of the people of the country in giving greater effect to the ceremonies of the day, by preaching a sermon appropriate to the occasion, on the Sunday preceding. The order also publishes an official copy of a circular, transmitted to officers in charge of national cemeteries, furnished General [illegible] by order of the Quartermaster General.

Meeting of Stockholders.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Tualatin River Navigation and Transportation Company yesterday the following named persons were named directors for the ensuing year: Joseph Kellogg, Geo. L. Curry, A. F. Hedges, Orrin Kellogg and B. Killin.

Canned Salmon.—Immense quantities of canned salmon are arriving daily from down the river. The steamer Ajax which sails for San Francisco this evening, will carry away 550 cases of fresh canned salmon from Bay View.

Championship.—We learn that a number of the sporting gentlemen of the city are engaged in getting up a billiard tournament, for the championship of the State. The prize is to be an elegant billiard cue, costing $100. That sum of money has already been raised, and the cue is being made. The money was raised by subscription, and is, we learn, free to all who may desire to contribute. A number of "ivory knockers" have already entered the list as competitors for the prize. The preliminaries of the contest have not as yet been arranged.

Oregon Bible Society.—The annual business meeting of this Society will be held at the Taylor street M. E. Church, of Portland, on the second Wednesday in May, the 14th. On the following Sabbath evening, May 18th, all the Protestant congregations and their choirs will unite in the above named church, at 7½ o'clock, when the annual discourse will be delivered by Rev. A. R. Medbury, of the Baptist Church, which will be followed by singing by the united choirs, and other highly interesting exercises.

On the Next Steamer.—A letter was received yesterday by Hon. M. P. Deady from Judge Lorenzo Sawyer, of San Francisco. The letter stated that Judge Sawyer would take passage on the Oriflamme which will sail for Portland on Saturday next. The regular term of the U. S. Circuit Court will convene on next Monday morning. Judge Sawyer is expected to arrive on Tuesday evening, and will be ready to attend the Court on Wednesday.

Funeral of Judge Thayer.—The funeral obsequies of the late Judge A. J. Thayer took place on Wednesday at Corvallis, and was attended by a very large concourse of citizens. The bar of the State was largely represented, attorneys from Roseburg to Portland being in attendance. The funeral was held from the Presbyterian Church, and the discourse on the occasion was preached by the Rev. Mr. Dawne.

Officers Elected.—At a meeting of Nonpariel Lodge No. 86, I. O. G. T., held on Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected: E. W. Ryan, W. C. T.; Miss Miranda Wiggs, W. V. T.; E. Stearns, W. S.; Miss Daniels, W. F. S.; Miss Emma Hayden, W. T.; Gus. Stearns, W. M.; Mrs. S. T. W. Stearns, W. C.; Mrs. Williams, W. I. G.; Andrew Stearns, O. S.

Installation.—At a regular meeting of Morvin Grove No. 2, U. A. O. D., held on the evening of May 1, 1873, the following officers were duly installed by W. H. Utter, D. D., G. A.; A. B. Hallock, N. A.; P. Runey, V. A.; D. Kiernan, R. S.; W. H. Utter, T.; J. C. Fox, I. G.; R. Norman, C.; T. Patterson, R. H. B. to N. A.; T. Huntington, L. H. B. to N. A.

The H. L. Tiernan.—The schooner H. L. Tiernan arrived from Astoria on Wednesday evening in tow of the tug Merrimac. This schooner brought about 250 tons of assorted cargo, which was discharged at Flanders' wharf. The Tiernan was towed down to St. Helens last evening at which place she will receive a cargo of lumber for San Francisco.

Paper at Astoria.—We are authentically informed that Mr. D. C. Ireland, for several years city reporter on the Bulletin, and a well known newspaper man of Portland, proposes to commence the publication of a paper at Astoria. The paper will be tri-weekly. We are unadvised as to the completion of the forthcoming journal, or the date of its issuance.

Resigned.—Mr. James C. Fox who has been President and Superintendent of the Willamet Iron Works for the last three years, has tendered his resignation to the Directors who have accepted the same. His successor has not yet been appointed.

On the Ways.—The little propeller Wasp has been beached on the eastern side of the river for repairs. Some necessary work is being done to her hull, and the machinery will be overhauled.

Portland Lodge No. 55, A. F. & A. M.—A stated communication of this Lodge will be held at Masonic Hall on Friday evening, May 2d, A. L. 5873, at 7½ o'clock. Business, M. M. Degree.

THE WAYMIRE BROTHERS.

Portland, May 1, 1873.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

The incident alluded to in this morning's Oregonian in the life of Fred. Waymire, deceased, regarding his recovery from epileptic fits some years ago, does not apply to him, but to his brother, John Waymire, Esq., of Dallas, Polk county, now alive, and up to this hour a living illustration of the wonderful power of prayer. We have no remarks to offer concerning the case, except that the facts are undeniable. Just as surely as the blind man was restored to sight by Jesus of Nazareth, so truly has John Waymire been saved from his terrible visitations of sickness: and his explanation of it was, and still is, that the Lord did it in answer to prayer. Will Professor Tyndall show that he is mistaken, or that this case does not, far better than the much talked of prayer test, "confer quantitative precision on the supernatural in nature," if any one knows exactly what that means?

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

RELIGIOUS, LOCAL AND GENERAL.

[From the P. C. Advocate.]

Rev. H. D. Driver, Agent of the American Bible Society, preached at Lee's Chapel on Sabbath morning last. He remained in the city until Wednesday, attending in the meantime the Tuesday afternoon meeting.

Judge Green, of Olympia, W. T., was in Portland last Sabbath; and visited the Taylor street Sabbath School and made a short practical address to the scholars. He is Superintendent of the Baptist Sunday School at Olympia, and is a faithful laborer in the Master's vineyard.

The North Portland Sunday School will give a floral festival and concert at their hall, corner of Ninth and D street, next week. The programme will include singing by the school, singing in classes, literary exercises, reading, addresses, &c., by the scholars and others, and the two floral exercises, called the "Easter Cross," and the "Bouquet Motto Makers." Proceeds for the benefit of the school.

At a regular teachers' meeting of the Taylor street Sunday School held on Tuesday evening, the picnic committee reported that they had canvassed the question of location; had been to Oregon City and made diligent inquiry in regard to grounds in that locality, including points as far south as Baker's Prairie, and north as Clackamas river, but failed to find, in their opinion, a suitable place. The Harney place, near Vancouver, was found to be a mile and a half from the river, too far for children to walk. The committee was granted more time, and will report again next Tuesday evening.

[From the Catholic Sentinel.]

The officers of the St. Joseph's German Catholic Society will hold a meeting next Sunday morning.

The ranks of our clergy have been increased by the arrival here, recently, of Rev. L. S. Demers, formerly of Kankakee, Illinois. Father Demers, as his name indicates, is a relative of the late Rt. Rev. Bishop Demers, of Vancouver Island, and is a native of Canada.

The Hibernian Benevolent Society has resolved to invest their surplus funds in real estate, having bought, last week, the lot on the southwest corner of Washington and Sixth streets, a fine location. It is understood that the Society will build a large and commodious hall for their own use on this site.

The St. Vincent De Paul Society, though small in number, as all societies for the amelioration of the condition of the poor and sick are, is nevertheless going on doing good as far as their limited means will allow. The Society, through their Spiritual Director Rev. J. F. Fierens, V. G., have recently bought a block in Couch's addition, for the purpose of erecting a Hospital thereon, which will be placed in charge of some order of Sisters of Charity.

STATE UNIVERSITY BUILDING.

We were shown yesterday the plans and elevations of the State University buildings, drawn by W. W. Piper, architect, of this city, and for good proportions, beauty of design, and convenience appropriate to the purpose to be used, we can see no fault to be found. The building is to be 112 feet in length by 67 feet in width, and to be three stories and basement, including the lecture room in the Mansard roof. A spacious tower decorates each end of the building, which is to be used for stairways, water closets, and wash bowls, having large doorways into the building on each story, which open on the outside of the building so as to be safe in case of fire.

The basement is appropriated for furnace and wood rooms, having the water closets in the basement of the towers, and is 10 feet in the clear. The main floor is 8 6 feet above ground. The main story is divided into 6 apartments, two of which are 38.5x20.9, and four 18.10x20.9, with hall between the entire length. The second story is divided into 3 apartments, one large recitation room 37.1x52 feet, and two 25.8x38.4. The two first stories are 16 feet in the clear of floor and ceilings. The third story is one large hall 49x78 feet, with ceiling 18 feet in the clear.

The building will be built of brick, with cut stone steps, buttresses, belting courses and stone trimmings, and to be supplied with two of Woodward's hot air furnaces, which will supply each apartment. The various rooms are also furnished with cold air ventilations and registers throughout.

A water tank, containing 1,500 gallons is located in one of the towers, and is to supply water to all of the wash basins in the different stories, and also the water closets, which are all patent pan hoppers, on the most approved plan.

It would seem from the plans exhibited that none could be made better, and for neatness and finish the work is a credit to the architects. Our State may boast of one of the handsomest State University buildings on the coast when completed, which will be within 12 months. The building is to be erected in Eugene, one of our most beautiful and flourishing cities.

Abraham Lincoln.

A HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED ANECDOTE OF THE LATE PRESIDENT.

New anecdotes of President Lincoln are sufficiently rare, but here is one which is authentic and characteristic, whether we consider the President's goodness in heart or the naivete with which it found expression. When Colonel Mulligan's Chicago regiment lay in camp, away down South, one of the privates (call him Barney D——), in a moment of passion and intoxication, stabbed and terribly mangled a comrade. Barney was one of the hard characters of the command, and it was a matter of no surprise when the court-martial sentenced him, for this last and gravest of his many offences, to be shot, and fixed the day of his execution. Meanwhile, to the surprise of every one, including the surgeons, the wounded man, began to recover, and was soon pronounced out of danger. Public opinion took the usual turn. It was thought a pity to shoot a fine young fellow, such as Barney was in his better moments; besides, he was one of the boys, had been born, like them, in Chicago, grown up with them. A movement looking to a petition for the culprit's pardon was set on foot, in which none joined more heartily than the wounded man, and the camp which but yesterday was for lynching Barney now yearned to save his life. But the General commanding had approved the finding of the court-martial, and only the President could interfere, and the regiment was encamped away from the telegraph lines; so that, though the necessary documents had been forwarded, backed by strong recommendations, there were grave doubts if the merciful message, which Lincoln was almost certain to send, would reach the camp in time. An express was sent to the nearest telegraph station, thirty miles away, to carry the message with all haste and all waited impatiently.

The night before the fatal day arrived. Barney was to be shot at sunrise next day. No reprieve had arrived and reluctantly the Adjutant prepared the necessary orders, detailed the firing party and arranged for the parade. The night wore on. It is safe to say that not an eye was closed in the camp, and every ear was strained for hoof-beats from the east. Past midnight, 1, 2, 3 o'clock. There were movements in the gray eastern sky; the brilliant southern stars paled; it was almost dawn.

Suddenly a faint sound was heard, as of a shout away to the east. The excitement became electric. Men rushed from their tents half dressed, and gathered in anxious groups. The officers were hardly less excited, and mingled with them. Then in rapid succession were heard challenge and reply as the advancing party passed sentry after sentry, then the tramp and splash of hoofs, and, at last, burst into view the long-looked-for messenger, covered with mud from head to foot, wan and worn out, his horse panting and travel stained and bruised, for they had ridden forty miles since midnight, along roads that were sluices of mud and water. The rider held his way straight to the Colonel's tent and delivered his telegram. It read thus:

"Washington, ——, 186—.

"Colonel Mulligan: If you haven't shot Barney D—— yet, don't. A. Lincoln."

They hadn't, and they didn't.

PLANTATION BITTERS!
S. T.--1860--X.
This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

This is what LYON'S KATHAIRON will do all the time. The charm which lies in well placed Hair, Glossy Curls, Luxuriant Tresses and a Clean Head, is noticeable and irresistible.

About School Examinations.

The subjoined explanation of the plan of examination, of pupils, adopted in the public schools of San Francisco, taken from the San Francisco Bulletin of the 23d instant will be of interest to the friends and patrons of our free schools, and especially to teachers:

Superintendent Wilbur has issued a circular to the Principals, Vice-Principals and Assistants of the public schools, in which he says that in the month of May, Principals of Grammar Schools are requested to examine all their respective grades, except the first, in reading and writing. In drawing, the third grade classes will be credited by the special drawing teachers, Mr. Burgess and Mr. Garin—on books and specimens. The fourth grade classes will be examined by some teacher designated by Principals—on drawing books and specimens. Primary Principals will examine their classes as follows: The fifth grade in reading, writing, drawing and oral instruction. The sixth grade in everything except written arithmetic. The examination in oral instruction must be conducted orally. Drawing in the Primary Schools will be credited under the general direction of the special teacher, Mrs. Benton. The oral examination in music, except in the first grade, will be conducted by such Assistants as are competent, designated by the Principals. The examination must be oral, the exercises selected from the music readers and charts, as designated in the several grades by the manual. In the Grammar grades ten credits, or one-half of the whole number of credits (20) allowed for music, will be given on an oral examination. This examination may be conducted at any time during the month of May. In Primary Schools the examination will be conducted according to the instructions of Primary Principals. Principals with the special teachers, will arrange examination in German and French.

RULES FOR THE ANNUAL EXAMINATION.

In conducting the Annual Examination, teachers will observe the following rules: Principals will assign teachers so that no one shall have the charge of his or her own class. Teachers will require the name and age of each pupil to be written at the head of each paper, also, the name of the school, the grade, and the name of the teacher of each class, and the name of the examiner placed in charge of the class. The name of the teacher by whom each set of papers is examined must be attached to the papers, and the examiners will be held directly responsible to the Committee on Classification. Principals and examiners will take all possible precautions to prevent pupils from communicating, or from aiding one another in any way, and the papers of any scholars detected in communicating or copying must be thrown out of the examination. Teachers in charge of classes will give no assistance to pupils, but may give any explanation necessary to a fair understanding of the meaning of any question. As the object of the examination is to determine what pupils are fitted for promotion, not how many may be promoted, teachers are instructed to examine and credit strictly and impartially. Principals will preserve all sets of papers, subject to the call of the Committee on Classification. Neither Principals nor Assistants will in any manner make any report of the average percentage of any class. The only report made will be the number examined and the number promoted. The maximum number of credits to be allowed in each study will be found on each set of questions, and also on the schedule attached. The examination questions will be delivered on the order of Principals, on the morning of each day of examination. All the schools will be closed on Friday, May 30, 1873. Principals are authorized to hold such closing exercises as they may desire, under the general rules of the Department. The first grade classes will be examined for graduation from the Grammar Schools and for admission to the High Schools on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, May 26th to 29th. The boys will meet for examination in the Boys' High School building on Monday, May 26th, at 9 A. M. The girls assemble at the Girls' High School building at the same time. Principals are instructed to send up for examination only those pupils who, judging from the two trial examinations held during the year, and from the monthly reports, will have a fair chance of passing examination successfully. During the vacation the report of the examination will be made up, and the certificates of graduation will be given out at the commencement of the school term in July. Principals will so assign papers for examination, that the papers in any one study in classes of the same grade, shall be examined by the same teachers, in order to secure uniformity of marking. In schools having several classes in any one grade, the papers may be divided. The standard of promotion will be fixed at 70 per cent., the same as last year.

COLLECTION OF STATISTICS.

On or before June 8th, Principals of High, Grammar and Primary schools, will make an annual report of the following statistics: Whole number of pupils enrolled during the year. Number received by transfer from other schools after the first day of the school year. Annual average number belonging. Annual average daily attendence. Whole number of pupils promoted from lower to higher grades at the beginning of each school month, not including the first month of the year.

EXAMINATION OF TEACHERS.

The examination of teachers in the Department, for the purpose of ascertaining qualifications and awarding certificates, was commenced in the South Cosmopolitan School building, Monday night, under the direction of Deputy Superintendent Swett, Prof. Leggett, Prof. Bradley and Prof. Herbst, and will continue at stated intervals, for a week or more. One hundred and twenty young ladies—comprising the flower of the Department—are participating in the examination.

The Noble Red Man.

HEROISM OF AN INSULTED BANNACK.

The nearest approach to the heroic coloring given to Indian character by the pale-face poets of other days has just been told us by one of the participators in a little squabble with one of the bone-picking Bannacks who haunt this vicinity. One day last week, while George Gohn and George Smith were killing beef at their slaughter-house up the gulch, a Bannack Indian, accompanied by three or four squaws, came upon the scene in search of wood and the legitimate plunder of the slaughter-house the refuse. The lordly child of the forest undignifiedly stretched himself upon the ground, and calmly smiled upon his industrious wives as they gathered the trophies. Happening to pass his way, Smith accidentally or otherwise touched the big Injun's foot with his boot, when big Injun resented the fancied insult by laying hold of a clapboard and swatting George over the back. More pleased than angry Smith retaliated by squeezing the red-man's windpipe, and shoving him one side, supposing this would settle it. Not so, however, for "Lo," had been insulted, and his dignity must be appeased. He accordingly went for Smith, and in a ten-minute rough-and-tumble fight came out second best. Now right here is where a sensible white man would have quit and where the traditional heroism of the red asserted itself. He had been grossly insulted in the presence of his sunburnt loves, and then ignominiously thrashed. It was too much, and with a voice humbled with shame and a bosom bared to the skies he approached Mr. Gohn with: "Me licked; me big Ingen, and me no want to live. You shootee me, George—you killum me quick—me no want to live." George remonstrated, but in vain—that buck was disgraced and wanted to be gathered to his fathers, and insisted on being killed as he stood smiting his brave, brown bosom before the humane slayer of kine. Failing to convince him that many a white man got whipped and then had the audacity to want to live, Gohn had to lead him away. On Smith returning to town and cabin in the evening, the noble Bannack again came and insisted on being killed, and finally persuaded Smith to perform the bloody deed with a "little ax." Stoically stood the chief under the shadow of the blade, ready for the sacrifice, and as it descended with a crash, Mr. Indian sprang one side, and you couldn't have seen his heels for the dust, as he struck out for his "wakiup." If Cooper had been writing this, that Indian would have now been an honored corpse, but as it is, he remains for a to endure and the Peace Commissioners to take care of.—Virginia City Montanian.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

THURSDAY EVENING, May 1, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 117⅝.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 84¼ buying; 85¼ selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 900 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 11s 9d@11s 11d; club 12s@12s 2d.

The tendency of the gold market in New York during the week has been slowly but gradually downward, reaching a lower point to-day than was touched during the entire month of April. Our latest advices by mail from San Francisco and the Eastern cities indicate a little better feeling in financial circles, though anything like ease is not felt, especially in New York, where the stringency is said to hang with surprising tenacity. Our local money market is still exceedingly close, and during the past few days we have heard many express the belief that at no period in the history of the past six or eight months of monetary pressure have our merchants and others realized the tightness of the times more extensively than at present. The buyers in the interior respond with but little promptness, and the spring stocks of our dealers must be paid for or they will be the sufferers. When will be the beginning of the end, is a question now to which no definite answer is yet made that satisfies the business community. We would not by these remarks be considered as disparaging to our city or State, for accounts from all sections of our country agree as to the existence of the same state of affairs to a greater or less degree.

Wool and Woolens.

The condition of the market for wool and woolen fabrics at present is most unsatisfactory, and while there are indications that favor the belief that prices have about touched bottom, there is still an unhealthy tone prevailing. Manufacturers, depressed by the slow sale which goods are meeting, have operated very cautiously in wool for some weeks past, and as each succeeding lot of a few thousand pounds taken by them has been at a lower rate than the preceding one, their confidence in the stability of values upon the raw material is thoroughly shaken. The course of the trade for the past three or four months has been a disappointment alike to dealers in the raw material and manufacturers of goods.

We quote at length from a leading commercial journal of New York on this subject:

It was generally believed that the losses at Boston last November would so far clear out the stock of both wool and woolens that the liberal sales of the latter, for which the outlook was favorable, would result in a scarcity and sustain advanced rates. The salvage proved to be greater than was expected, but the losses reflected upon the finances of the general trade to an extent wholly unlooked for. These results were unfavorable for the maintenance or even establishment of high prices, and before the first of the current year goods had settled back to previous rates.—Wool held up feebly until near February, when prices began drooping, and the tendency of the market since that time has been steadily downward. A comparison of prices will be interesting here, and we annex the quotations current upon leading grades of the staple at different periods within a year:

| | July 1st, 1872. | Jan. 1st, 1873. | Ap'l 14th, 1873. |
|---|---|---|---|
| X and XX fleece | 65@70 | 63@70 | 50@53 |
| Super pulled | 68@70 | 55@65 | 45@50 |
| Tub washed | 75@80 | 70@75 | 50@63 |
| Cape | 42@45 | 38@43 | 30@33 |

While the raw material has declined very considerably, goods have not undergone so important a shrinkage in values, though the lower qualities are off somewhat since the first of the year, and all grades have failed to realize the improvement which was anticipated during the excitement of last fall. Trade throughout the country has been prostrated more or less by the severity of the past winter and the protracted stringency in money, yet in the face of these unfavorable conditions, manufacturers of fine and desirable woolens have found very little difficulty in disposing of their goods at fair rates. This fact suggests a possible explanation to the difficulty that has been experienced in moving the lower grades of goods, and one which many manufacturers have themselves admitted the truth of, namely, the use of shoddy, cotton, bamboo and other cheap materials as substitutes for wool in the poorer qualities of goods. The class of people who wear cheap clothing care chiefly for durability, and goods as destitute of this essential quality as many of the fabrics turned out by American manufacturers during the past year and more are certain to bring the class of fabrics to which they belong into disrepute. Consumers have taken to purchasing more high cost and durable goods, and increased sales of foreign and fine domestic woolens have been the result. Our enormous imports for two years have included large amounts of woolens, and with full supplies these goods have been marketed at rates which would recommend them to purchasers in preference to any but the most carefully made American goods. This is no unjust reflection upon American productions, for it must be admitted that the manufacturers of heavy woolens in this country, with a very few exceptions, have, during the past few years, given more attention to immediate pecuniary gains than to bringing their goods up to the standard of excellence of foreign productions. The spring trade is now pretty well advanced, and there is but little prospect of an improved tone to the market during the remainder of the season. The stock is perhaps not excessively heavy for this time of year, although it is largely in excess of the current requirements of the trade. Few goods have been taken from the first hands for the fall trade as yet, and there is no indication that the usual early buyers will begin to operate much in advance of their wants. Prices are low, but if sales were upon a scale of any magnitude there would probably be some profit to manufacturers at the current rates on the raw material.

The decline and present weakness in wool is associated in no small degree with the dullness in the goods trade, but it is more directly due to the overstock of wool which has been accumulating in this country for some two years. The high prices reached in 1871 encouraged the increased production of wool throughout the country, and as the production grew the consumption gradually decreased (the high cost of goods checking sales). Our importers were induced to bring in large amounts of foreign wools last year, and these have helped to crowd out domestic grades, though much of the foreign stock sold this year has paid a heavy loss to the importer. At present there is a surplus of wool the world over, and so far as our own country is concerned the only way out of the difficulty seems to be a diminution of the imports both of goods and material. Let American manufacturers gauge their productions by more careful calculations upon the consumption of goods in this country, and then strive constantly to bring their goods up to the level in all respects of foreign fabrics, and the success of the woolen interest becomes fixed. Wool will always be obtainable at a reasonable figure if our imports are kept down to the amount required to make up the deficiency in our own clip, excepting when the excessive demands of the farmers render it necessary for the manufacturers to draw their supplies from abroad. The American demand was largely instrumental in bringing about the general advance in foreign producing countries, and were there less flirting between our wool producers and dealers here, the irregularities in prices abroad, so far as they are influenced by our trade, might be avoided.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There being no vessels in port to load with this cereal, none in immediate expectation, and many of our State mills being closed, it could not reasonably be expected that any considerable amount of activity would be manifested in the market. The receipts so far during the week have been small compared with last, and appearances indicate no more important movements for sometime to come. Small lots occasionally change hands at $1 60 per cental, which is about the current price here for a good quality.

FLOUR—The demand is not active, according to information derived from agents of our State mills, and we are satisfied of this from other sources, and it is also confirmed by the fact that the reports of agents to their principals have caused several mills in different sections to shut down temporarily. Rates for flour are still standing at $5a5 50 for extra of standard brands, outside and country brands, $4 25a4 75, and superfine $4 per barrel. A purchase of 10,000 bbls of Salem mills has been made for shipment to Hongkong, but we learn that this is, much of it, all ready for delivery, and the wheat on hand to furnish the remainder. Shipments to California have aggregated upwards of 63,000 bbls for the season, and the outgoing steamer to-morrow will carry something like 1,000 barrels more.

OATS—The market has been unsettled during the whole of the past week, and though rates have considerably declined, the general expectation has not been disappointed, for all looked for it. Prices are now ruling steadier, and quotations furnished at 60a62½ cents per bushel, sacks included. The horse disease in San Francisco produced the fall there, and that fact, together with the expectation of a similar state of affairs in our own State, has affected this market. The local demand is dull also.

FEED—The prevalence of the epizootic in San Francisco and the popular belief in the expediency of feeding bran to horses afflicted with that disease causes high rates prevailing there for that article, telegraphic quotations being $40 ₩ ton. Our market is very scarce and we are furnished quotations here at $25@27 50. Other qualities of ground feed are also slightly advanced and in good demand.

BARLEY—But little doing aside from occasional imports from California. Prices nominal at $1 40a1 45 ₩ cwt.

HAY—We note continued full receipts, with the demand rather declining. Good baled timothy is quotable at $18@20 ₩ ton; loose, $15@18; wild, dull at $8@9 ₩ ton.

POTATOES—There seems to be an inexhaustible supply, and rates are very low, ranging from ½ cent ₩ lb for common low land to 1 cent for best varieties.

ONIONS—The San Francisco market, as will be seen, is quoted at fancy prices. In ours the demand is brisk, and but few coming to hand. We quote at 4½c ₩ lb.

APPLES—The season's supply is evidently pretty well out of first hands, and fancy figures will rule for choice varieties from now until the new crop comes in. As high as 3c ₩ lb has been paid, but common lots will not bring as much.

BUTTER—The supply of all grades is good, but except choice for table use, the demand is dull at current rates, which are for cooking, 18@20c; for choice roll, 30a35c ₩ lb.

EGGS—Very large lots are being brought to market daily, and prices are thus kept down to a low figure, especially as the San Francisco market is so flat that they will not bear shipment. We quote at 16@17c ₩ doz.

BACON—With the oft-mentioned full supply, we note but very little doing except in satisfying the local demand, which is fair. Good country cured hams could not be placed at more than 12½@13 ₩ lb. Sides are quoted at 11a12c, and Shoulders at 8a9c. Fancy brands and sugar cured 2c higher.

HIDES—No change noted, green still as low at 6a7c, salted, 7@8c, and dry 15a17c.

WOOL—There is but little feeling in the market here, as there are no Eastern buyers among us yet, and it is a difficult matter to tell the future of the trade in this staple. Nominal quotations are furnished us at 18@20 ₩ lb.
